TEAM BUILDING

Our Team Building scheme is geared towards all manner of companies, organizations and sport clubs; a team of professional guides, psychologists and coaches will take you through our thoroughly planned programs which can always be tailored to the demands of the client.

The programs are composed of both “indoor” and “outdoor” interactive scenarios which are purposed to motivate the attendants through a series of creative and dynamic tasks. Each of our programs represent an amalgamation of their smaller counterparts, and as such are intricately tied to represent a large, coherent whole.

The aim behind our Team Building scheme is meant to encompass the following points:

- Identification of any major problems within a team as well as the enabling of an open, synergic environment where they might be constructively solved.
- Improvement of interpersonal relations.
- Discovery of individual talents and their appropriation within a team environment.
- Build and encourage a sense of togetherness.
- Development of collaborative troubleshooting-skills.

WHY TEAM BUILDING?

Teams who truly work “as a team” are rare. Good teams are not made up of people who are necessarily in good standing with one another, who avoid conflict or who simply stick to their own work. Instead, a good team includes people who respect one another, who know how to creatively resolve their issues, who jump in when necessary and know when to back down when something doesn’t demand their attention.

Luckily, teamwork can be learned; our programs is rooted in many years of professional experience in communication and negotiation skills, efficient non-violent conflict resolution and strategic organizational development.

Combining adventure sports and teambuilding know-how, we aim to strengthen the motivation and communication capabilities within of our clients, as well as to enable the practice of quick and efficient decision-making with minimal stress involved.
